EPSO Workshop Implementing a Plants and Microbiomes Strategy in Europe

Brussels, 10.3.2022

The EPSO Working Group on Plants and Microbiomes has the pleasure to announce its fourth workshop to take place online on 8 April 2022, 10:00 – 16:15, as a virtual workshop via Zoom.

This fourth workshop has two aims. First, we will hear highlights from (multi-)national plants and microbiomes research and innovation from our Working Group members. Second, we will discuss in more detail two themes which need further elaboration by the Working Group: 'Research infrastructure', including common repository for culture collections, EU phenotyping platforms, and metabolomics; and 'Databases' for microbiome data - and provide advice to Horizon Europe and (multi-)national research strategies.

The meeting intends to increase collaborations between the working group members, particularly regarding research infrastructure and databases.

Recommendations from the workshop will be provided to the scientific community, the European Commission and national agencies.

We kindly ask you to register for your participation by e-mail to Corné C.M.J.Pieterse@uu.nl by 15 March 2022.

Registered participants will receive the final programme and the zoom link on 29th March.

We look forward to e-meeting you in April!

Angela Sessitsch, Paul Schulze-Lefert, Corné Pieterse and Karin Metzloff
